as we are all asked to stay at home to stay safe."

Safe Passage has been helping victims of abuse for over 27 years. Today, we are in a time where the abusers have their mates confined in, at the command of the law. Here is Dr. Phil sharing his advice on how to reach someone that you suspect is in an abusive situation.

Six years ago, Luisa Diaz, Founder of Mi Amor Gala, joined forces with Safe Passage, a non-profit 501(c)3 organization that works to repair the damage done from abuse through raising funds at events.

On November 21, 2019 over 250 people gather together to celebrate the launching of New York-Mi Amor Gala in support of Safe Passage to promote awareness of the dangers of domestic violence and how safety and healing is at hand.

Recently, Founder Trish Steele called Luisa to share with her, "This is a hard time for everyone, as we are all asked to stay at home to stay safe. But for some people it is even harder, because home is not a safe place." She continued, "I can only imagine that being asked to stay there could feel very isolating and frightening for those and their family. It may mean spending more time with the person who is harming you."

For those abusers who have seen Dr. Phil's video, Safe Passage is extending a prayer of God's mercy to you. Are you ready to stop hurting your loved ones? It is going to take Almighty God to take you through the steps of repentance, forgiveness, and deliverance. You too, can be saved from your abusive cycle.

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whoever believes in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16)
